

Why the RBP Foundation

The RBP Foundation is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) corporation. Donations made to the foundation are used for special programs, training, equipment, new technology and building community partnerships.

Funds from the Foundation are not used for basic law enforcement, which is covered through the City's budgeting process.

RBPD has made tremendous progress in the fight against crime. The numbers speak for themselves. Between 2002-16 (14 years) the crime rate in Riviera Beach has decreased nearly 53 percent.

However, with the challenges facing modern law enforcement today, the need to stay relevant in training, technology and equipment is paramount. It is also costly – a financial burden that most cities can't afford. This is a problem that police departments are facing across the country.

Through your donations, the Foundation gives everyone an opportunity to play a greater role in working with RBPD to improve public safety. All donations count. No donation is too large or too small.

Foundation Structure, Needs, Benefits

The RBP Foundation is an independent nonprofit organization, governed by volunteers, that focuses on the needs of the Riviera Beach Police Department and its interaction with the community.

The RBP Foundation serves the community and the RBPD in a number of ways:

- Collects resources to support activities that reduce crime and increase public safety
- Offers access to the public; particularly to the corporate community
- Identifies leadership in the community that is interested in and will help support the RBPD by generating resources for the RBP Foundation
- Raises awareness and educates the public about the mission, role and challenges of the RBPD, Police Officers and its personnel
- Provides support via public/private partnerships not available from public funding to supplement the needs of the RBPD.
